Private William Thomas Tipton

Died 10th October 1918 aged 20

William Thomas Tipton was born in January 1898 in Church Stretton and was baptised there on 16th January by the Rector, Charles Noel-Hill.

The 1901 census shows William living at World's End with his father Charles, a painter and glazier, his mother Ellen and his three older sisters Alice, Elsie Mary and Edith. He also had 2 younger brothers, Arthur and the youngest member of the family, baby Harold. Some six years later we can see William and his brothers Harold, Dick (Richard) and Arthur in this school photo.

Church Stretton School circa 1907

Back row: ?, M.Pugh, ??, William Tipton, ?, Stan Robinson At Right: G. Ireland, Mr. Butler (Headmaster), A. Ireland Third Row: ??, Williams, R. Williams, Doris Poole, Lucy Poole, Alsop, ?, E. Lewis, ??, Len Griffiths, ?, Harold Tipton Second row: Lil Hartley, Dick Tipton, R. Bebbington, Arthur Tipton, Mary Lewis, ? E. Griffiths, ????

Second row: Lil. Hartley, Dick Tipton, R. Bebbington, Arthur Tipton, Mary Lewis, ?, F. Griffiths, ????? Kneeling: ?? Front Row: Ewart Holmes, Harold Holmes, Mac. Price, Vince Payne, TomPoole, ?

A wistful looking William aged nine

By the time of the 1911 census Elsie May was working as an under-nurse in Birkenhead and Alice was a servant nearer home in Frankwell, Shrewsbury. William, now 13, was still at home with his parents along with Edith, Arthur, Harold and new additions to the family, Richard aged 8 and young Belton, just two. Sadly, William's mother Ellen died later that year, leaving her husband Charles alone with the six children.

This photo was taken around 1911 and shows William's siblings. William's whereabouts on that day are not known.

The girl in the photo is Alice, who later lived at Tityrus, up Castle Hill, in All Stretton.

The back row is Arthur and Richard and in front we can see Harold and Belton.

Charles re-married in the spring/summer of 1914 and we understand that William left home as soon as he could after the outbreak of war later that year, enlisting in Shrewsbury.

He was a private in the 1st battalion of the King's Shropshire Light Infantry with a service number 25025 and was mobilised in July 1916. The $\mathbf{1}^{\text{st}}$ battalion took part in the early battles of the Aise and Marne and thereafter served entirely on The Western Front. In October 1918 the battalion were engaged in the Battle of Cambrai. At midnight on October $\mathbf{8}^{\text{th}}/\mathbf{9}^{\text{th}}$ orders were received for the battalion to attack at 5am, the regimental war diaries show that there was barely enough time reach the designated assembly positions.

9/19/8	a warning color was account about manight that the NHSKI wave attack at 0520. The homoraning officer went at once to Bre All for delate. The boy bearmanded were sent for to refer to Budd. The last mound pros sent out to recommended persteen of assembly.
	Everything warreny during carried out, and the Battalian associate the assembly positions just in time to account at the time stated. Ocherny mead made direction very had had the Battalian laborated all objectives by 06 to hours, very lettle opposition being met with annexly capturing 3 presents. On assume as the objective hatrils were people forward tith valling hunning from FRESNOV to GROWE to BONDIAN A6945 Wt-W11422/M1166 330,000 12/19 D. D.&L. Forms/C/2118/14.

Although the action was a success Private William Thomas Tipton lost his life on 10th October. He is described in some records as 'died of wounds' and other as 'killed in action'.

He is buried at Tincourt New British Cemetery, France, Grave V11 F.16.

He was awarded the Victory Medal and the British War Medal. His soldiers' effects show that he left a total of £25 9s 6d to his father, Charles.

William's youngest brother Belton did very well for himself, considering the tragic loss of his mother at such a young age. He built the house Highbury on Ludlow Road for himself and his wife in 1938, served in East Africa in WW2 and later built up Tipton DIY on High Street with his son Ray. Sadly William was not to live long enough to see his success.

Sources:

War Diaries image courtesy of the National Archives

Photos and other information provided by a family member.